Expert Secretely Visited Edmonton to Look for Route into This City--Will Give Favorable Report

Mr. Robinson made a very quiet visit to Edmonton, so quiet, in fact that the newspaper men of the city did not learn of his presence while here, although he is one of the best known reconnaissance men in the Hill service and is recognized from east to west as a man whose eye is final in railway affairs in his branch of the service. Saturday and Sunday he spent in driving about the city and making a general

This latest development furnishes a piece of news of enormous importance to the people of Edmonton, as it means that traffic between the Canadian cities and the city of Winnipeg will be made by the great rail roads, also to make Edmonton a central point of conjunction with the north channel of continental trade.

The dead are W. P. Young, watchman, Edlie Dancy and two unidentified bodies.

So far the board's program, like their financial and managerial program, has not been outlined and will not be until after the annual meeting, which Kenora, Feb. 11.—A commotion was caused in Notre Dame Catholic church this morning when James Hoggerery, an old-time resident here was seized with syncope. He went to church in the best of health, but while mass was being held he suddenly collapsed. Dr. Chapman was immediately called, when he was carried into Father Germain's residence adjoining and he died in half an hour.

After the hockey match tonight, the

The judges themselves state that for oats, they have not seen the equal in the entire northwest, and in figuring on a score card on which the exhibitor is never expected to reach par, it is significant to note that every one of the oat samples which won a first prize gave up 12 % of the points made by Thomas Davis' sample.

In wheat Edmonton does not claim to have it over the spring wheat belts of Manitoba, or the fall wheat belt of Southern Alberta, but even in the real there was little to choose between the two.

ROBIN GOVERNMENT TESTIFIES TO IMMIGRATION POLICY.

While the Conservative press vainly tries to discredit the immigration policy of the Government the published statistics continue to illustrate the splendid results from this branch of the public service. The latest testimonial is from the Province of Manitoba, whose Government cannot be considered unduly partial to the federal administration. The following paragraphs are taken from the Winnipeg Telegram, and refer to the presentation of the report of the Department of Agriculture in the Provincial House last week:

"The report on immigration was as follows: 'The brightest year in the history of Manitoba's immigration has just closed, the result being a substantial increase in the population of the province. Great Britain, the United States, and the eastern provinces of Canada have contributed most largely to this increase. Perhaps in no previous year has there been a larger percentage of the most desirable class among the arrivals. It is more than evident that the possibilities of Manitoba as a great wealth producing country are becoming better known. For the future the signs of the times are encouraging. This province is destined to become the home of several million people, and when its real advantages as to soil, climate, government and transportation facilities have become understood, it is certain that a much larger flow of immigration will be encouraged toward the pioneer people of the west.'

"In his report, James Hartney, Manitoba government agent, gave a glowing picture of the movement of eastern settlers to the west during the year. Marked features of his work this year have been the supplying of trained farm help in response to special applications from Manitoba farmers, and in bringing intending settlers into touch with owners of improved farms. The practice of newcomers from Ontario endeavoring to rent improved farms for the first season or longer is rapidly gaining in favor, and report received by me show that results are mutually satisfactory to owner and tenant."

"Hon. A. A. C. Lalanciere, immigration commissioner for Manitoba, whose work has been chiefly among the French-Canadians, and in the New England states, reported a most successful year's work. At his office in Montreal 51,000 harvesters secured transportation, of which 700 remained in the west."

"J. J. Golden who has charge of the immigration and employment bureau at 617 Main street, reported in part as follows: 'Immigration to Manitoba this year has been the largest in the history of the province, showing a grand total of 55,600. The returns show that 46,836 came in the regular way and that of the number who came in to assist as harvesters, 8,763 remained making the above total.'

"During the year the demand for laborers in all branches of industry has been greater than usual. This is noticeable in agriculture in particular; notwithstanding this I have been able to supply practically all who require. Farmers are adopting a system of farming that enables them to engage a large amount of their assistance for the entire year."

"A noticeable feature of the work of this division for the year has been the increased demand for skilled labor, especially in Winnipeg."

"There is an evident shortage of domestic help in this province, the demand far exceeding the supply, in fact there have been very few to come forward offering to engage in domestic service. Sometimes none are to be had. This would appear to be one of the greatest problems of housekeeping. It is probable, however, not without its commendable features as it has increased the demand for married men, who with their wives are prepared to join in the work of the farm."

"J. F. Tennant, traveling immigration agent, who has devoted all his attention to American immigration makes the following statement: 'The following is a summary of the immigration from the United States of actual bona fide settlers, coming into Canada at the frontier ports and outposts of this province, to settle in Manitoba and the Northwest. March and April are the best months in the year for immigration, and Gréna the most favorable route for car lot shipments."

PLEASED WITH THE AUTOMATIC

Alderman Boyle Returns to the City From Chicago

Alderman Boyle who was one of the party to go to Chicago to look into the merits of the automatic telephone and to compare it from a subscriber's point of view with the manual or Bell 'phone, returned to the city on Saturday night over the C. N. R. and expresses himself as thoroughly satisfied that the automatic is the most up-to-date thing in the telephone line that has yet come out.

The party which went down to the Windy City to look into the matter were Mayor May and Aldermen Boyle and Manson of the city council and J. H. Morris, W. H. Clark, and John I. Mills of the board of trade. They spent several days around Chicago looking into the matter and then Mayor May, Aldermen Boyle and Manson and John I. Mills went to Grand Rapids to have a look at results there.

In Chicago they went through the works of the Automatic Telephone Co., which is the company manufacturing the automatic 'phones, and the Western Electric Co., which is the name under which the Bell Company makes its telephones. They also took in the switch central stations of both systems. The Illinois Telephone Co. is the company name under which the automatic is operated in Chicago. They are held down to a very limited area in Chicago on account of the fact that the company has no franchise in the streets, and therefore can only reach such parts of the city as they can come at through a tunnel, for which they recently got a franchise. In spite of the disabilities under which they are working, however, they have 2,500 telephones installed, and when the Bell franchise runs out, which will occur in a little over a year, there is expected to be a merry war for the supremacy in the telephone business in Chicago.

It was in Grand Rapids, Alderman Boyle said, that they had the best opportunity to see the workings of the two systems, and a comparison of them there is entirely in favor of the automatic. In that city the Citizen's Telephone Co., as the Automatic is here called, has 7,500 telephones working, and the Bell has 2,500. When the party reached Grand Rapids they separated, and without stating the nature of their business to anyone, commenced to make investigations, each independently. Alderman Boyle states that in all his wanderings about the city and in the many questions that he asked, he did not receive one opinion adverse to the automatic. In fact, he says, it would be hard to find a people better satisfied with any public service than the Grand Rapids people are with the automatic.

Alderman Boyle says that they did not see anything of Expert Kitch on their travels, but that they did not want to, as they went to see the automatic from the standpoint of subscribers only and not to get expert advice. They are prepared to take the expert advice later on, when it is submitted to the council.

After examining the Grand Rapids system the party scattered and Ald. Boyle is the first to reach the city on the return. Mayor May and Ald. Manson went on to Toronto and John I. Mills intends to go right through to New York before he returns to the city.

NEW SECRETARY FOR INDIA

(John Foster Fraser in London Express.)

Mr. Morley has become Secretary for India, the land of many strange gods. He has never trodden the rose-strewn pavements of the Golden Temple at Amritsar; never heard the cry of the muezzin at the Jumna Masjid at Delhi; never witnessed the weird rites or smelt the pungent odors in the narrow crowded ways of Benares on the banks of the sacred Ganges. He has never climbed upon the shoulder of the sleeping Buddha near Pagan in swampy Burma. I doubt if he knows Sanskrit, though he may have read Veda in translation.

Yet we smile in England that a Chinese should be appointed the chief of telegraphs in the Celestial Empire because he can read Confucius sideways. It is hard to exactly locate Mr. Morley in the political firmament. He is a star of varying brilliance. A writer of terse rather than brilliant English he is comparatively ineffective as a platform orator and as a Parliamentary debater his greatest efforts are apt to miss fire. A couple of sessions ago he was the chosen spokesman of the Front Opposition bench to hurl an indictment at the then Government for its "mess and muddle" in the South African war. No statesman ever had a more crowded, thrilled and expectant House. The speech, however, was a failure. Everybody, political friend as well as political foe, writhed and grieved at the oratorical catastrophe. He did not speak again in the House for many months.

Mr. Morley is another evidence that the man with the literary soul finds it hard to succeed in political life. John Stuart Mills was a failure; so was Macaulay, so was Lecky. As editor of the old Pall Mall Gazette, Mr. Morley had a trenchant pen. As a writer in historical study he has a clear, occasionally a terse, and sometimes crisp diction. Perhaps in literary reputation he will be best known as the biographer of his old friend and chief, Mr. Gladstone.

He is an agnostic in patriotism. He would resent the suggestion he did not care for his country. But there is a side of his intellect which impels him, unwittingly, unconsciously, and quite honestly, often to take up his stand on a question antagonistic to that on which the majority of his countrymen are ranged. This is not because of combativeness, for Mr. Morley is a peaceable and reasonable man. The greatness of the British Empire he apparently regards as a source of possible weakness rather than strength.

He was a Home Ruler long before the exigencies of the political situation revealed to the late Mr. Gladstone the Irish were a "nation" rightly struggling to "be free." During the last ten years, when the Liberal party has blown hot, blown cold, in regard to giving Ireland a separate Parliament in Dublin—hoping they need not, but afraid that they must—he has been steadfast in his belief that the only way to bring happiness to dark Rosaleen is to allow the Irish political life to "gang their ain gait."

Mr. Morley sees no advantage in the mere size of the Empire. In regard to India, his sympathies are all toward autonomy, self-government, rather than toward a benevolent despotism, under which India has been peaceful and prospered and become "the fairest jewel in Britain's crown." Yet as Secretary for India, Mr. John Morley wields a rod of despotism greater than has ever been wielded by any czar.

The quality which wins Mr. Morley the personal esteem of his opponents, however much they disagree with his politics, is his honesty. "Honest John" is a name applied to him, not in compliment, but in truth. He does not trim. However unpalatable his views may be to the mass, he declares them boldly, no matter who disagrees. And to the honor of our political life that is a type of character which appeals to all men. Accordingly there are few statesmen more personally popular than is John Morley.

Among the whole six hundred and seventy members of the House of Commons there are no two more dissimilar in temperament, in ideals, in appreciation of never in their speeches is there a Balfour and Mr. Morley. Yet no two men have a higher regard for the opinions of each other. They may fight each other fiercely across the table of the House, but never in their speeches is their a tinge of suspicion that the other is insincere. They have fought too long in the same arena not to know of what metal the other is made. If they have any sympathies in common it is the higher, rarer atmosphere of literature. So it is a pleasant sight in the House of Commons—revealing how our Parliament stands on a more lofty plane than any other Parliament in the world, for men can be friends personally while they are foemen politically—to see Mr. Balfour and Mr. Morley meet behind the speaker's chair, after the hot clash of their polemical weapon and enjoy a few minutes of agreeable chat.

Mr. Morley is not a good speaker. His voice is rasping and metallic, and he hesitates in his speech as though he were fumbling for the exact word to explain his meaning. He argues with his opponents instead of banging them. He is more of a doctrinaire than a debater.

But in every line of his strong and seared features steadfastness of purpose is proclaimed. This is shown in the straight forehead, the deep, serious eyes, the long and thin lips. He is a man more equipped to sit in his study and in tuncful diction instruct mankind in the moral of history than take part in the hurly-burly of the political fray. However, honest and steady conviction have made him a chief of the Liberal party.

—John N. Swigert is in the city today having returned on Saturday from Joliet, Illinois, where he spent the winter. Mr. Swigert is accompanied by his partner in the fur trading business, Dr. Polk, of Joliet, and J. W. Polk, of the same city. They are buying their supplies today intending to go north in a few days.

FICKLE FORTUNE

A fortnight since George Grant, Liberal member from the north riding of Ontario, was the idol and hope of the Tory party. For why? Was he not a "revolving" Grit and better still a talkative one? Wherefore the hearts of the Opposition pressmen thumped in glee and Grant stock rose accordingly in the camp of the Philistines. Wearied with the somnolent seclusion of mid-winter in the wilds of Ontario, George D. made a pilgrimage to the National Capital, and there, like many another young man, felt into his company and breathed the musings of a faithful soul into the receptive ears of the Tory scribes. Just what George D. said will probably never be known even by himself, but it was seen soon in receptive soil. Refreshed by showers of imagery and nurtured by fervid partisanship it grew like a mushroom and reached maturity on the morrow. In a two-column black-headed lament on the general decadence of the Government. Such things do not occur daily, wherefore the Tory journals lauded George D. as the most popular Grit in this broad Dominion.

But how are the mighty fallen! Yesterday the Conservative press of the nation applauded his remarks, now "None so poor as do him reverence." George D. has fired a postmaster and his fame is departed as a shadow. The halo fades from the idol, the laurels wither on the brow of the late champion of Ontario's ambitious youth and George D. is pictured as a monster who ruthlessly snatches the means of livelihood from a poor old man. Fame was ever a fickle mistress and the praise of an enemy more to be dreaded than his censure.

MR. PINGLE SIDE-TRACKED BY HIS FRIENDS

It now appears that our friend Pingle of Medicine Hat was not a "quitter" but that the aspirations of that gentleman were deliberately frustrated by the machinations of his supposed supporters. The nomination of Mr. Pingle was disallowed by the returning officer on the ground that the nomination papers were not properly executed. For holding it to be his duty to obey the law in this regard that official made the object of an attack by the Calgary Herald in an attempt to misrepresent the occurrence as a plot to prevent the nomination of Mr. Pingle. It is worthy of note, however, that even the audacity of the Herald is not sufficient to contend that his action was other than in accord with the requirements of the law.

The facts of the case are set forth in the following despatch from Medicine Hat on the date of nomination:

"The conclusion is unavoidable that the irregularities in Pingle's nomination papers were made intentionally by friends of Pingle, who found that no other means would prevent him pursuing his foolish intention of going on with a contest in which every day would have made his position more ridiculous. His nomination papers were filed with the Returning Officer on Monday, which fact Pingle announced with a flourish at Monday night's meeting. Pingle himself left town early on Tuesday morning going to Maple Creek. When the nomination proceedings opened on Tuesday afternoon Pingle's representative was informed that the papers already filed did not comply with the requirements of the law. No step was taken to remedy the defects, and Returning Officer Mitchell had no option when the hour of two o'clock arrived but to declare Knowles elected, because no other candidate had been duly nominated. Liberals and Conservatives alike agree that whether the failure was intentional or otherwise the occurrence was fortunate for Pingle and everybody else concerned. All the prominent conservatives of Medicine Hat with one or two exceptions, were strongly opposed to Pingle's candidature. Had he gone to the polls they would have voted for him, but they are far better pleased that he has not gone to the polls. The best Conservatives in town had done their utmost to dissuade Pingle from his foolish course and last Thursday he appeared to have abandoned the idea of running. The fact that he changed his mind again is put down to a visit of G. M. Annable of Moose Jaw, who came up and urged Pingle to run. It is said that Annable was charmed by the failure of the Provincial Rights party to nominate him (Annable) and for revenge wanted Pingle to run and make a farce of the whole procedure."

The Returning Officer has also issued the following signed statement:

"Pingle's nomination papers were held to be irregular for the reason that Pingle's nominator did not sign and affirm before a Justice of the Peace or before the Returning Officer as required by Sec. 17 of the Representation Act. Their names purported to be signed before a commissioner. The affidavit required by Section 19 was only furnished on my request. Immediately at opening of nomination proceedings I explicitly and officially advised Pingle's representative that his papers failed to comply with the requirements of Section 17, but he paid no attention to the advice. Notice was given Pingle's representative that the papers were imperfect in other respects, but no further amendment was made. An objectionable feature was that after Pingle had signed his "consent paper" alterations were made in his nomination papers. (Signed) C. R. MITCHELL.

The situation appears to be that Mr. Pingle's better judgment had been aroused toward the close of the campaign and his withdrawal from the field was only prevented by the timely visit of Mr. G. M. Annable, of Moose Jaw, who calculated on Pingle's certain defeat as a means of getting even with the West Assinibola Conservatives for declining to make his honored self the standard bearer in the contest. The plans of Mr. Annable naturally did not increase the enthusiasm of the West Assinibola Conservatives in the hopeless cause and they resolved to head Mr. Pingle off. Remonstrances proving of no avail, they adopted more daring tactics. The nomination papers were placed in the hands of the Returning Officer on the day preceding nomination and on the understanding that this matter had been attended to the would-be candidate went to Maple Creek on nomination day.

On opening nominations the Returning Officer exceeded the obligations of his office to inform Mr. Pingle's representatives that the signatures on the papers were not witnessed by a Justice of the peace or by the returning officer and that the affidavit to accompany these had not been produced. The papers were taken from the hall by Mr. Pingle's representative, the affidavit attached, the name of the commissioner who had witnessed the signatures cancelled and the name of another commissioner substituted, alterations also being made in the nomination papers, regardless of the fact that Mr. Pingle had already signed the "consent paper." The papers were then returned but still lacking the prescribed signature of a Justice of the peace or returning officer were disallowed.

If therefore censure is due the official in charge of the election, it is due on the ground that he exceeded his duty in an endeavor to have the papers properly executed rather than that he used his office to prevent or interfere with Mr. Pingle's nomination. And such criticism is certainly not due from the gentlemen who either side-tracked Mr. Pingle deliberately or who did not know a mistake when it was shown to them.

FARMERS' PAGE

THE SUMMER FALLOW.

(From "Hints to Grain Growers" by T. N. Whiting.)

The bare summer-fallow is considered essential by the most successful grain-growers in Assiniboia and many parts of Manitoba. Its purposes are many, the most important being the storing or saving of moisture from one year to the next for the production of a full crop in dry seasons when the rainfall would otherwise be insufficient. Another reason is that it gives an opportunity and is the means of destroying the numerous weeds which spread so rapidly and rob the soil of moisture and fertility. It permits also a larger area of land being made ready for seeding as it is done at a time when other work is not pressing. On the well-managed wheat farm, one third at least of the land under cultivation is summer-fallowed each year. The following extract from the report of Experimental Farms for 1901 gives the experience gained at the Indian Head Farm. It will be seen that Mr. Mackay speaks emphatically in favor of summer-fallow well conducted:

"It is very gratifying to know that throughout the Territories, summer-fallowing is rapidly becoming general. No matter where farming is carried on, the farmers realize that to be sure of a crop they must prepare a portion of their land the year before the crop is grown, and apart from the value of the stored moisture, there is the inestimable advantage of keeping weeds from over-running the farm."

"The true worth of properly prepared fallows was clearly demonstrated in the season of 1900 in every grain growing district of Assiniboia, and although the season just past has been an extraordinary one, the crops grown on fallows, were, in every case, the heaviest producers."

It has been observed in Alberta and Saskatchewan, that the land to be fallowed is not as a rule, touched until the weeds are full-grown and in many cases bearing fully matured seed. It is then plowed.

By this method, which, no doubt, saves work at the time, the very object of a summer-fallow is defeated. In the first place moisture is not conserved because the land has been pumped dry by the heavy growth of weeds and, secondly, instead of using the summer-fallow as a means of eradicating weeds, a foundation is laid for years of labor and expense by the myriads of foul weeds turned under.

As has been pointed out in my previous reports, early and thorough work on the fallows is absolutely necessary to success, and I here repeat the methods and results of tests carried on for some years past.

First Method—Plowed deep (six to eight inches) before the last of June; surface cultivated during the growing season and just before or immediately after harvest plowed 5 or 6 inches deep.

Result—Too much late growth, if season was at all wet; grain late in ripening, and a large crop of weeds if the grain was in any way injured by winds.

Second Method—Plowed shallow, 3 inches deep, before the last of June; surface cultivated during the growing season, and plowed shallow, 3 to 4 inches deep in the autumn.

Result—Poor crop in dry year; medium crop in wet year. Not sufficiently stirred to enable land to retain moisture.

Third Method—Plowed shallow, three inches, before the last of June; surface cultivated during the growing season, and plowed deep, seven or eight inches in the autumn.

Result—Soil too loose and does not retain moisture. Crop light and weedy in a dry year.

Fourth Method—Plowed deep, seven to eight inches before the last of June; surface cultivated during the growing season.

Result—Sufficient moisture conserved for a dry year and not too much for a wet one. Few or no weeds, as all the seeds near the surface have germinated and been killed. Surface soil apt to blow more readily than when either of the other methods are followed. For the past fourteen years the best, safest and cleanest grain has been grown on fallow worked in this way and the method is therefore recommended.

Fallows that have been plowed for the first time after the first of July and especially after July 15, have never given good results; and the plan too frequently followed of waiting until the weeds are grown, and often ripe, and plowed under with the view of enriching the soil, is a method that cannot be too earnestly advised against.

In the first place, after the rains are over in June or early in July, as they usually are, no amount of work, whether deep or shallow plowing, or surface cultivation, can put moisture in the soil. The rain must fall on the first plowing and be conserved by surface cultivation.

Weeds, when allowed to retain their full growth, take from the soil all the moisture put there by the June rains and plowing under weeds, with their seeds ripe or nearly so, is adding a thousand-fold to the myriads already in the soil and does not materially enrich the land.

Lifeway Soap—disinfectant—is strongly recommended by the medical profession as a safeguard against infectious diseases.

EDMONTON WON FROM CALGARY

Thistles Defeated Southern Team by a Score of 3 to 2

Calgary, Feb. 12.—In semi-darkness and on horrible ice the boys defeated Calgary three to two. A large crowd was present. Calgary has splendid players but are no match for Edmonton under proper conditions. Unsatisfactory referee arrangements played havoc with Edmonton and caused numerous disputes. Curriers and numerous Edmonton supporters were present. The was intensely exciting throughout, games as follows: Deaton five minutes—Calgary King, fifteen minutes, Johnston, two minutes before half time. Resuming play, Ryland scored from bad off-side, allowed. Just before full time Banford scored. Elliott and Wright on the fence twice on account of old scores. Humeston played splendidly. Deaton, "Weirle" and Johnston, starred. Line-up—Humeston, goal-Banford, Point; Powers, cover point; Sibbald centre; Deaton, rover, Johnston, right; "Weirle", left; Referee, Douglas and Elliott. Time-keepers, Bell West Dr. Ings. The boys are in good shape and spirits.

FARMERS' MARKET

With the exception of wheat the Edmonton market closed this week decidedly stronger and firm in tone. Oats are going up steadily. Deliveries were brisker on the farmers' market today, but heretofore there has been very little oats coming in.

Wheat is down two cents. Hay is going up, due purely to short delivery and local demand. Coal is steady and deliveries good. The following are the prices quoted on the farmers' market—

Oats, milling, 27c to 28c.
 Feed 25 to 27c.
 Hay enough 37 to 38.
 Upland, 29 to 31.
 Timothy, 31 to 35.
 Coal, $3.50.
 The Alberta Milling Co. quotes wheat—

WINNIPEG STABLE BURNED

Winnipeg Feb 12.—A curious fire occurred here on Sunday morning in the stable end of the city, when a stable full of horses and harness, feed, etc., was burned to the ground without the fire brigade or police being present. It appears the policeman on the beat was of opinion that the blaze was outside the city limits, and the fire burned itself out. It is said to be incendiary, as there was not a man living there; in fact, no one had been there for several hours. The loss on the horses is placed at $3,500, and on the building and harness $1500. There was also $800 loss on furniture stored above the stables. The insurance on all was only $2000. The building and contents were owned by Frank Gadsden.

The prize and silver medal for the best collection of seed grain, five samples of one bushel each, went to J. A. McPherson, of Spruce Grove. W. Wickford of Clover Bar, was the only other exhibitor in this class.

The school district prize for the grand aggregate percentage in all classes went to Clover Bar.

The afternoon and evening yesterday were spent by most of the exhibitors many who were not exhibitors in listening to the lectures of Messrs. McKillican and Mitchell, the judges sent out by the department of agriculture.

Mr. McKillican, who lectured in the afternoon, took as his subject "Seed Grain Selection," delivered a good practical common-sense talk on the subject, which crowded about as many valuable hints as could be gotten into the time.

In the evening Mr. Mitchell lectured on the science of soil cultivation, in which he treated the farmer as a manufacturing chemist with the world as his laboratory, whose business was the arrangement of certain alchemic conditions, the production of certain results, and in describing these conditions and the results he gave a very fair idea of the chemical and botanical processes by which nature, aided by the farmer, works out the phenomena which results in a bumper crop.

This evening there will be the seed fair entertainment at which vocal and instrumental numbers will be supplied by the faculty of the Alberta College, and brief talks made by Premier Rutherford, Hon. W. H. Cushing, Hon. Chas. Cross, Hon. W. T. Findley, Professor Riddell and several others.
